The Licensee may use the Software on any computer owned, leased, or otherwise controlled solely by the Licensee for a period of thirty (30) days from the date that the Software was downloaded and until terminated. Licensee must purchase the Software once the trial period ends or uninstall the Software.

The free trial of the Software may only be used at any one time. If the Licensor discovers that more than one free trial has been requested, the Licensee will become liable for payment of the license fee for all use of the Software made after the first free trial period. The Licensee acknowledges that the trial version of the Software may have limited or restricted functionality and that the Licensor shall be under no obligation to provide technical support in relation to the trial version of the Software.

LICENSING OPTIONS

There are two licensing options available: Single License and Corporate License.

Single license is a lifetime license that can only be used by a single developer. The Licensee must purchase a separate license for each of its developers who are permitted to use the Software. Each license purchased enables the Licensee to permit a single named developer who is employed by the Licensee or working as a contractor for the license to use the Software to develop applications for the Licensee. Each developer working directly with the Software must hold a license. The Licensee agrees to keep up to date records of all Licensed Developers who it has permitted to use the Software and to make such records available to the Licensor on request. The Licensee also agrees to ensure that all developers, who it permits to use the Software, comply with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

Corporate license is a lifetime license for a single company with unlimited number of developers. With this Corporate license the Software will be licensed to the Licensee's Company name. A unique license key generated for the Licensee's Company name will save the trouble when entering the license info on multiple systems.
